The course explores the economic and social history of the United States from the colonial period to the present day. While the course is broad in scope, we will pay special attention to particular topics. These topics include changes in US labor markets, changes in living standards, the growth of income inequality in the US, and if time permits, the evolution of the US macroeconomy.

The course will rely both on lectures and class discussions. The class setup will be to begin each class with a lecture and close with a class discussion to memorialize the assigned readings. Student participation is not only encouraged but required to earn full participation points.

Course objectives:

By the end of the semester, a student who is successful in this course should gain understanding of:

1. The sources of economic growth in the US, including natural resource endowments, innovation and technological change, and international trade (including innovations in communication and transportation),

2. The effects of economic growth for the US population as a whole,

3. The evolution of US government policy as it relates to the economy,

4. The application of historical insights to contemporary policy debates.

Texts and Other Materials:

There is one required text that you should purchase:

Note that I will post copies of graphs, lecture outlines, and class announcements online on the course Canvas site. Even if you make use of these outlines, it will still be necessary for you to come to class to take good notes and participate in class discussions to earn full participation points. We will be have a roll call every class to keep track of class participation.

Disability Services:

The University of Utah seeks to provide equal access to its programs, services, and activities for people with disabilities. If you will need accommodations in this class, reasonable prior notice needs to be given to the Center for Disability Services, 162 Union Building, 581-5020 (V/TDD). CDS will work with you and with me to make arrangements for accommodations.

Requirements and Grading:

1. Exams

   There will be three non-cumulative exams. All exams will consist of a mix of multiple choice and short answers. In very rare cases of extreme, unavoidable, and documented scheduling conflicts, individual students may arrange to take exams early, and these arrangements must be made well in advance of the scheduled exam time. Late exams may be given in cases of documented medical or other emergency. Otherwise, failure to take an exam at the scheduled time will result in a 0 for the exam.

2. Canvas Discussions

   Every alternate week you are required to participate in an online discussion session on Canvas. You are required to post a 500 words response post to the discussion question posted on Canvas. Each post is worth 10 points.

   Some general writing rules apply to the assignment. First, your grade will be based in part on whether or not you expressed yourself clearly. Spelling, grammar, and organization matter. Second, if you use material from any source, you must clearly cite your source at the end of your response post, and if you directly quote any material, you must clearly indicate what has been quoted (along with indicating your source). If you quote material without clearly indicating so, you will receive a 0 for the assignment. You will have a week to respond to the discussion and you may NOT submit response posts late.
