

Heterodox Economics Student Association at the University of Utah

Fall 2014 Speaker Series
Department of Economics

Friday, September 12 1:30-3 pm	Panel: "Discussion on and Insights from Piketty's Capital in the Twenty-First Century " Mark Glick , Economics, University of Utah Ella Myers , Political Science, University of Utah Codrina Rada , Economics, University of Utah Steve Banister , Economics, University of Utah Moderated by Norman Waitzman , Economics, University of Utah
Friday, October 3 1:30-2:30 pm	Sonja Klinsky School of Sustainability, Arizona State University "Reaching Across: Potential Contributions from Communications and Policy Analysis for Climate Change Economics"
Tuesday October 7 12:30-1:30 pm CTIHB 351	Alta Gracia Worker Speaking Tour 2014 (co-sponsored with Gender Studies and Latin American Studies) "Human Rights in the Global Garment Industry"
Friday, November 7 1:30-2:30 pm	Rudi von Arnim Economics, University of Utah "Transatlantic Trade and Investment Partnership (TTIP): Trade Negotiations and Macro Models"
Friday, November 14 1:30-2:30 pm	Randy Albelda Economics, University of Massachusetts, Boston "The New Vulnerable: Low-Income Workers in Low-Wage Jobs"

Except for the October 7 event, all presentations are held in the JJR Library, OSH 336.

HESA – The Heterodox Economics Student Association in the University of Utah was established in order to promote and preserve the tradition of radical political economy. Check out our blog!